Attendance of museums and galleries

Good evening. My name is Anton and I'd like to present a report about attendance of national museums and galleries in England.

Today, a lot of public places are trying to increase the flow of tourists and visitors, because it takes a really important place in their lives. Museums and galleries are not an exception. Although every museum is unique in its own way, some of them draw on a substantial amount of visitors, and some of them not.

To summarize, the graph listed below, any admission charges that are required to enter will significantly drop the amount of visitors. For comparison, Science Museum suffered a big crash after introducing charges while Tate Gallery kept respectively growing its popularity. On the other hand, British Museum took a great, doubling the rate of visitors. The others of the graph do fluctuate against "top and bottom", but still can be considered as "high" or "low" in their own amount.

If there's a problem with visitor's flow, we can suggest you a number of options. First of all, you should focus on grabbing public's attention by integrating new exhibition systems and modern appeal. British Museum can be taken as an example. Secondly, try to be free of any charges. It will do the trick.

In conclusion, it can be said that the way to success is laid in our own human wishes and interest.

Thank you.
